

FIRM: Mar Vista's purpose is to create value for our investors by generating unique risk-adjusted returns that exceed the opportunity cost of investing in a passive index. Our mission requires a conviction to be different in how we think, behave and invest.

PHILOSOPHY: We invest in high quality growth businesses trading at discounts to fair value. Specifically, we look for competitively advantaged companies with abundant opportunities to grow and reinvest capital at high rates of return. We also seek management teams with a proven ability to allocate capital in ways that maximize shareholder value.

STRATEGY: The Focus strategy seeks long-term capital appreciation by investing in a portfolio of 15-20 durable franchises that can grow excess returns on capital well into the future yet trade at attractive margins of safety. We believe the diversification found in a portfolio of 15-20 stocks provides ample opportunity for differentiated outcomes, while dampening the volatility inherent in more concentrated products.

Quarter Commentary:

For the second quarter, Mar Vista's Focus strategy returned +21.0% net of fees, underperforming the Russell 1000® Growth Index (+27.8%) and outperforming the S&P 500® Index (+20.5%). Positive stock selection and relative outperformance in information technology, combined with an underweight in healthcare and consumer staples contributed to relative performance during the quarter, while financials, consumer discretionary and industrials detracted from short-term results. Top contributors were Apple (+43.8%), Amazon (+41.5%), Adobe (+36.8%), Microchip Technology (+56.0%) and Intuit (+29.1%), while Ecolab (-2.4%), Berkshire Hathaway (-2.4%), US Bancorp (-3.1%), Markel (-0.5%) and Unilever (+10.0%) detracted from returns.

Equities posted their best quarterly gain since 1998. This quarter's increase appears to be driven by optimism around the economic reopening and coronavirus treatment. The central bank's pledge to save our virus ravaged economy has provided financial reassurance for equity and credit markets. Businesses are adapting to social distancing, but recovery patterns differ by industry. Subdued economic activity and employment are pandemic related headwinds that may prove difficult to remedy. Public policies designed to slow the spread of the virus are accelerating digital trends that benefit a select group of technology companies. This highly concentrated cohort has an outsized impact on equity market performance. The path forward for asset prices will depend on policy actions taken by all levels of government to support the economic recovery.

Extraordinary fiscal and monetary stimulus is fostering stock price appreciation that is outpacing the growth of underlying business values. The risks of a second virus outbreak and negative effects from the lockdown are being displaced by investor optimism. With the portfolio's average discount to intrinsic value near all-time lows, we expect future returns to closely correlate with our companies' intrinsic value growth. The coronavirus will continue to dominate the headlines, but ultimately profits will steer equity prices over the long-term. Our portfolio is navigating the pandemic with well-capitalized serial compounders. The current environment may be unnerving, but it provides opportunities to increase the future return potential of our portfolio.
